Key Features

Practical

Our approach is practical, constructive and engaging.

The course materials and assessments deal with training and development issues relevant to your sector. This makes it much easier to apply what you learn.

Participants will have opportunities to network, share experiences and discuss practical issues with peers.

Student Centred

Our courses are designed to accommodate the pressures and responsibilities that you face as a busy practitioner. Its mixture of workshops, tutorials, and online learning will allow you balance your work, life and college commitments.

Participants will be supported by a highly experienced tutor. They will receive face to face and online support during the workshops and can avail of telephone and/or email tutorial support during their studies.

Relevance

We work in partnership with over 220 organisations from the human services and nonprofit sector. The College understands the challenges inherent in Training and Development and our training will always be fully cognisant of the context and the needs of your sector such as in the social care/disability sector, the CPD requirement under CORU registration and HIQA regulations. In the community sector, upskilling and relevant training when there can be uncertainty around funding and political support.
